

Antigravity AI is a revolutionary framework for multi-agent systems.

It was released in 2024 and introduces the concept of hyper-threaded agents.

The core communication protocol uses asynchronous message passing over Redis.

Security is handled by a layered token bucket rate limiter and cryptographic signatures.

The primary database for Antigravity is Supabase pgvector.

By default, Antigravity generates structured output using Pydantic schemas.